PENNSYLVANIA NATIONAL MUTUAL CASUALTY INSURANCE COMPANY,

Plaintiffs,

v.

JJA CONSTRUCTION, INC.
JOSE CASTILLO
JJA FRAMING COMPANY,

Defendants.

ORDER

This matter is before the court on the Plaintiff's Motion for Default Judgment [D.E. 13] and the memorandum filed in support of the Motion for Default Judgment [D.E. 13-1]. For the reasons discussed below, Plaintiff's motion is GRANTED.

I. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Plaintiff Pennsylvania National Mutual Casualty Insurance Company ("Plaintiff Penn National") initiated this declaratory judgment action against Defendants Jose Castillo d/b/a JJA Framing Company, JJA Construction, Inc., and JJA Framing Company (collectively, the "JJA Defendants"), on May 18, 2018. Plaintiff Penn National seeks a declaratory judgment that certain policies of insurance issued by Plaintiff Penn National to the JJA Defendants do not provide coverage to the JJA Defendants for the claims asserted against the JJA Defendants in two related underlying construction defect actions captioned "Summer Wood Property Owners Ass'n, Inc. v. Portrait Homes-South Carolina, LLC, et al.," (C.A. No. 2015-CP-10-00100) and "Mary Young, et al. v. Portrait Homes-South Carolina, LLC, et al.," (C.A. No. 2015-CP-10-02432), pending in the Court of Common Pleas for the County of Charleston, South Carolina (collectively, the “Underlying Construction Defect Litigation”). This case is brought pursuant to the Federal Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. §2201, et seq. and Rule 57 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. The record shows that Plaintiff Penn National served JJA Defendants with process pursuant to Rule 4 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure on June 1, 2018. [D.E. 7, 8, and 9]. The JJA Defendants did not file a responsive pleading to the Complaint, and the Clerk of Court entered an entry of default against the JJA Defendants on August 7, 2018. [D.E. 11]. The Entry of Default was served on the JJA Defendants by U.S. Mail on August 7, 2018. [D.E. 12].

Plaintiff Penn National now moves for Default Judgment as against the JJA Defendants. This Motion for Default Judgment was filed on August 30, 2018, and also served on the JJA Defendants by U.S. Mail. The JJA Defendants have not appeared or defended this action in any way.

II. DISCUSSION

Upon default, the well-pleaded facts alleged in the Complaint are deemed admitted. See Ryan v. Homecomings Fin. Network, 253 F.3d 778, 780 (4th Cir. 2001). Based upon Plaintiff Penn National’s Complaint, the following facts are established.

The JJA Defendants were sued in two related construction defect civil actions captioned “Summer Wood Property Owners Ass’n, Inc. v. Portrait Homes-South Carolina, LLC, et al.,” Civil Action No. 2015-CP-10-00100 (the “Underlying POA Construction Defect Action”) and “Mary Young, et al. v. Portrait Homes-South Carolina, LLC, et al.,” Civil Action No. 2015-CP-10-02432 (the “Underlying Construction Defect Class Action”) filed in the Court of Common Pleas for Charleston County, SC.¹ It is alleged in the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation that the JJA Defendants performed defective work on a townhome project located in Charleston, South Carolina, known as Summer Wood.

On March 4, 2015, the JJA Defendants were personally served with a copy of the Summons and Complaint in the Underlying POA Construction Defect Action. The JJA Defendants were also personally served with a copy of the Summons and Complaint in the Underlying Construction Defect Class Action on May 12, 2015. Pursuant to the Scheduling Orders entered by the Court in the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation, the deadline for all discovery to be completed was September 25, 2017.

Plaintiff Penn National issued the following commercial general liability policies to the JJA Defendants:

- a. Commercial General Liability Policy No. GL9 0601617 issued to “Jose Castillo d/b/a JJA Framing Company” at 3000 Colvard Parkway, Charlotte, NC 28269, effective from December 5, 2002 to March 2, 2005.
- b. Commercial General Liability Policy No. GL9 0601617 issued to “JJA Construction, Inc.” at 11227 East Field Road, Hendersonville, NC 28078, effective from March 2, 2005 to December 5, 2006.
- c. Commercial General Liability Policy No. GL9 0601617 issued to “JJA Construction, Inc.” at 9496 Highway 778 Lot 2, Ladson, SC 29456, effective from December 5, 2006 to December 5, 2008.
- d. Commercial General Liability Policy No. GL9 0649575 issued to “JJA Framing Company” at 9496 Highway 78 Lot 2, Ladson, SC 29456, effective

July 9, 2008 to August 15, 2008.

- e. Commercial General Liability Policy No. GL9 0649575 issued to “JJA Construction, Inc.” at 9496 Highway 778 Lot 2, Ladson, SC 29456, effective from August 15, 2008 to November 3, 2008, and July 9, 2009 to July 21, 2009.
- f. Commercial General Liability Policy No. GL9 0649575 issued to “JJA Construction, Inc.” at 11227 Eastfield Road, Huntersville, NC 28078, effective from July 21, 2009 to July 9, 2010.²

The Penn National Policies contain “Conditions,” including “Duties In The Event Of Occurrence, Offense, Claim Or Suit.” Specifically, the Policies provide as Conditions of coverage that:

- 2. Duties In The Event Of Occurrence, Offense, Claim Or Suit
 - a. You must see to it that we are notified as soon as practicable of an “occurrence” or an offense which may result in a claim. To the extent possible, notice should include:
 - (1) How, when and where the occurrence or offense took place;
 - (2) The names and addresses of any injured persons and witnesses; and
 - (3) The nature and location of any injury or damage arising out of the “occurrence” or offense.
 - b. If a claim is made or “suit” is brought against any insured, you must:
 - (1) Immediately record the specifics of the claim or “suit” and the date received; and
 - (2) Notify us as soon as practicable.You must see to it that we receive written notice of the claim or “suit” as soon as practicable.
 - c. You and any other involved insured must:
 - (1) Immediately send us copies of any demands, notices, summonses or legal papers received in connection with the claim or “suit”;

² The commercial general liability policies issued by Penn National to JJA from December 5, 2002 to July 9, 2010, will be collectively referred to as the “Penn National Policies” or the “Policies”.

- (2) Authorize us to obtain records and other information;
 - (3) Cooperate with us in the investigation or settlement of the claim or defense against the “suit”; and
 - (4) Assist us, upon our request, in the enforcement of any right against any person or organization which may be liable to the insured because of injury or damage to which this insurance may also apply.
- d. No insured will, except at that insured’s own cost, voluntarily make a payment, assume any obligation, or incur any expense, other than for first aid, without our consent.

Despite the fact that the JJA Defendants were served with the Summonses and Complaints in the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation, the JJA Defendants never notified Plaintiff Penn National of the underlying litigation or sent copies of the summonses or complaints received in connection with such litigation to Plaintiff Penn National as required by the Conditions provision in the Penn National Policies. Rather, Plaintiff Penn National received notice of the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation for the first time when it received a letter dated June 17, 2015, from counsel for the plaintiffs in the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation, indicating that the JJA Defendants had been named as defendants in the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation and had been served in the underlying litigation and that despite the fact that the JJA Defendants had been served, the JJA Defendants had not made an appearance in the underlying litigation. At that time, counsel for the plaintiffs in the underlying litigation also threatened to place the JJA Defendants in default.

Upon receipt of the June 17, 2015, letter from counsel for the plaintiffs in the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation, Plaintiff Penn National sent letters to the JJA Defendants on July 8, 2015, reminding the JJA Defendants of the “Conditions” of coverage under the Penn National Policies, including the obligation to immediately submit suits to Plaintiff Penn National and cooperate with Penn National in the defense of such suits, and reserving its right to deny coverage based on the JJA Defendants' failure to provide notice of the underlying litigation. However, despite the fact that Plaintiff Penn National sent the July 8, 2015, letters to JJA at both the address listed on the Declarations Pages for the most recently-issued Penn National Policies and also the address at which the Affidavits of Service filed by counsel for the plaintiffs in the underlying litigation indicated that JJA had been served with suit papers, the letters were returned as unclaimed, and JJA never otherwise contacted Plaintiff Penn National to provide notice of the underlying litigation or to tender the litigation to Plaintiff Penn National for a defense.

As set forth above, as a condition of coverage under the Penn National Policies, the JJA Defendants had a duty or obligation under the Policies to: (1) notify Plaintiff Penn National as soon as practicable of an "occurrence" which may result in a claim against it, (2) provide written notice to Plaintiff Penn National as soon as practicable of a claim or "suit" brought against it, (3) immediately send copies of any demands, notices, summonses, or legal papers received in connection with such a claim or "suit" to Plaintiff Penn National, and (4) cooperate with Plaintiff Penn National in the investigation and defense of such claim or "suit".

Notice and cooperation provisions in insurance policies, such as the provisions found in the Penn National Policies, have long been recognized as valid by North Carolina courts. "The purpose and intention of an insurance contract's notice provision is to enable the insurer to begin its investigation and to initiate other procedures as soon as possible after a claim arises, and to avoid any prejudice that might be caused by a delay in receiving notice." S.C. Ins. Co. v. Hallmark Enterprises, 88 N.C. App. 642, 645-46, 364 S.E.2d 678, 680, disc. review denied, 322 N.C. 482, 370 S.E.2d 228 (1988) (citations omitted); see also Lockwood v. Porter, 98 N.C. App.

410, 411, 390 S.E.2d 742, 743 (1990). “[U]nless the insured or his judgment creditor can show compliance with the requirement, the insurer is relieved of liability.” Davenport v. Travelers Indemnity Co., 283 N.C. 234, 238, 195 S.E.2d 529, 532 (1973).³

The enforcement of notice provisions was specifically addressed by the Supreme Court of North Carolina in Great American Ins. Co. v. C.G. Tate Construction Co., 303 N.C. 387, 279 S.E.2d 769 (1981) (Great American I), where it adopted a three-part test in order to determine whether an insurer is relieved of liability based upon the failure of the insured to comply with the notice requirements in an insurance policy. Under this three-part test, the court must first decide whether the notice was given as soon as practicable. Id. If not, the court must decide whether the insured has shown that it acted in good faith (i.e. had no actual knowledge that a claim might be filed against it). Id. Finally, if the good faith test is met, the burden shifts to the insurer to show that its ability to investigate and defend was materially prejudiced by the delay. Id.

In the Great American II case, the North Carolina Supreme Court affirmed the three-part test established in the Great American I case and clarified each prong of the test. Great Am. Ins. Co. v. C.G. Tate Construction Co., 315 N.C. 714, 340 S.E.2d 743 (1986). The North Carolina

³ To the extent that South Carolina law applies to those policies issued by Plaintiff Penn National to the JJA Defendants in the State of South Carolina, South Carolina law is in accord with North Carolina law with regard to the enforcement of notice provisions in the insurance policies. Under South Carolina law, “breach of an insurance policy’s notice clause automatically relieves the insurer of its obligations under the contract, including the payment of proceeds due, and the duty to defend and to indemnify the insured.” Wright v. UNUM Life Ins. Co., No. 2:99-2394-23, 2001 WL 34907077, at *2 (D.S.C. Aug. 31, 2001). In fact, South Carolina courts have held that “[n]o rule of law is more firmly established in this jurisdiction than that one suing on a policy of insurance, where the notice required by the policy is not timely given, cannot recover” Prior v. S.C. Med. Malpractice Liab. Ins. Joint Underwriting Ass’n, 407 S.E.2d 655, 657 (S.C. Ct. App. 1991) (quoting Lee v. Metro. Life Ins. Co., 186 S.E. 376, 381 (S.C. 1936)) (holding that the insured was not entitled to coverage where he failed to provide timely notice of the claim and also failed to forward suit papers until approximately four months after he had received them).

Supreme Court held in Great American II that under the first prong of the test, “the first step in the Great American test simply requires the trial court to determine whether there has been any delay in notifying the insurer.” Great American II, at 719, 340 S.E.2d at 747. The court went on to find that “[i]n most instances, unless the insurer’s allegations that notice was not timely are patently groundless, this first part of the test is met by the fact that the insurer has introduced the issue to the court.” Id. Next, the Great American II court held that the test of good faith involves a two-part inquiry: (1) Was the insured aware of possible fault, and (2) Did the insured purposefully and knowingly fail to notify the insurer. Great American II, at 720, 340 S.E.2d at 747. “[B]oth knowledge and the deliberate decision not to notify must be met for lack of good faith to be shown. Id. Finally, the Great American II court held that if the insured did not act in good faith, then the insurer is relieved of its obligations to defend and indemnify the insured under the Policy even if it was not prejudiced by the delay. Id. at 721, 340 S.E.2d at 748; see also Digh v. Nationwide Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 187 N.C. App. 725, 654 S.E.2d 37, 40 (2007).

However, if the insured establishes that it acted in good faith, then the burden shifts to the insurer to show that it was prejudiced by the delay. Id. Some relevant factors in determining whether the insurer has been prejudiced by the delay are: (1) the availability of witnesses; (2) the ability to discover other information regarding the incident; (3) the existence of official reports concerning the occurrence; (4) the preparation and preservation of demonstrative and illustrative evidence; and (5) the ability of experts to reconstruct the scene and the occurrence. Great American I, at 398, 279 S.E.2d at 776.

The JJA Defendants failed to abide by any of the conditions for coverage in the Penn National Policies, and so Plaintiff Penn National is relieved of any coverage obligation under the Penn National Policies for the claims asserted in the Underlying Construction Defect

Litigation under the three-part test set forth by the Supreme Court of North Carolina in Great American. First, although the JJA Defendants were served with the summonses and complaints in the underlying litigation, the JJA Defendants did not just delay providing notice to Plaintiff Penn National of the underlying litigation and sending these suit papers to Plaintiff Penn National, but never provided any notice of the litigation to Plaintiff Penn National and never forwarded any suit papers to Plaintiff Penn National in connection with the underlying litigation. Accordingly, there has clearly been some delay in the JJA Defendants notifying Plaintiff Penn National of the underlying litigation.

As to the second part of the test, it is deemed admitted that the JJA Defendants' failure to provide notice was not in good faith. However, even if the lack of good faith had not been deemed admitted, the JJA Defendants were served with the summonses and complaints in the underlying litigation (and therefore, knew of the underlying litigation, that the plaintiffs in the underlying litigation held the JJA Defendants responsible for their damages, and the existence of the Penn National Policies), yet still failed to notify Plaintiff Penn National of the underlying litigation or forward the suit papers received in the underlying litigation to Plaintiff Penn National. Accordingly, under such circumstances, the JJA Defendants were aware of their possible fault, and still purposefully and knowingly failed to notify Plaintiff Penn National of the litigation. As such, the JJA Defendants did not act in good faith in failing to provide notice to Plaintiff Penn National of the underlying litigation or to forward suit papers received in connection with the litigation. Therefore, Plaintiff Penn National is relieved of any coverage obligation to the JJA Defendants under the Penn National Policies for the claims asserted against the JJA Defendants in the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation based upon the failure of the JJA Defendants to comply with the notice and cooperation requirements under the policies regardless of whether Plaintiff Penn National was prejudiced by such failure.

Furthermore, even if the JJA Defendants had acted in good faith, Plaintiff Penn National would still be relieved of any coverage obligation to the JJA Defendants under its policies because Plaintiff Penn National was prejudiced by the JJA Defendants' failure to provide notice and cooperate with Plaintiff Penn National under the third part of the Great American test. Because the JJA Defendants failed to provide notice of the underlying litigation to Plaintiff Penn National or otherwise cooperate with Plaintiff Penn National in its investigation of the claims in the underlying litigation, Plaintiff Penn National has been deprived of the opportunity to investigate the claims, engage in discovery in the underlying litigation (which closed on September 25, 2017), or otherwise defend the claims asserted against the JJA Defendants in the underlying litigation.

Accordingly, coverage is not afforded to the JJA Defendants for the claims asserted against them in the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation. Therefore, Plaintiff Penn National is entitled to a declaration that (a) the Penn National Policies do not afford coverage for the claims against the JJA Defendants in the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation, (b) Plaintiff Penn National is not required to defend the JJA Defendants in the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation, and (c) Plaintiff Penn National is not obligated in any way to pay any damages that may be awarded against the JJA Defendants in the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation.

III. CONCLUSION

Plaintiff Penn National's Motion for Default Judgment is ALLOWED. It is hereby ORDERED, ADJUDGED, and DECREED that a declaratory judgment should be and the same is hereby entered in favor of Plaintiff Penn National, and the court hereby declares and rules that (a) the Penn National Policies do not afford coverage for the claims against the JJA Defendants in the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation, (b) Plaintiff Penn National is not required to defend the JJA Defendants in the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation, and (c) Plaintiff Penn National is not obligated in any way to pay any damages that may be awarded against the JJA Defendants in the Underlying Construction Defect Litigation. The Clerk of Court is DIRECTED to close this case.

SO ORDERED.
